STUDENT AND COMMUNITY RELATIONS

The strongest link of communication with parents, and one of the most fertile public relations areas, is the pupil in the classroom. Since failure to provide pupils with information leads frequently to misinformation, it shall be the responsibility of the administration to see that information regarding school activities and programs of organization is properly disseminated through the pupils to parents.

The use of letters and bulletins carried by pupils to their parents is encouraged. Care should be exercised, however, that such use of students shall be limited entirely to information about the school system, a particular school, or school district.
